THE BELSTEADS SCHOOL

NEWS OF THE WEEK

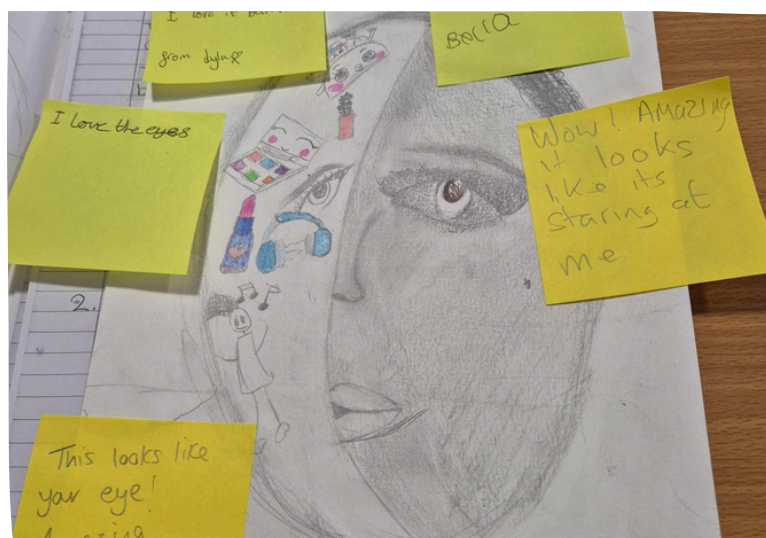

This week we held our end of topic art exhibition for 'This is Me'. Most students chose to complete self-portraits but there were some who opted for well known characters and the standard of work was fabulous. There are too many to show on the newsletter but I have put a few on here for you to admire.

After half term, our theme is 'Extreme Weather' and our focus will be on flooding. Our holiday club will have sniffer dogs on site, for the first time. The group of adults train dogs to be able to find scents hidden for them and they are going to use our site and will show our students how to lay the scents too. We also have our brilliant bonfire and firework event on the 30th October.

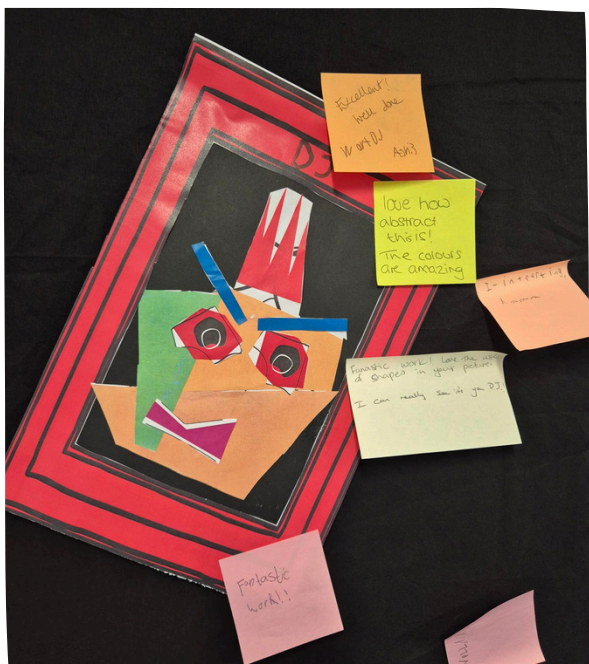

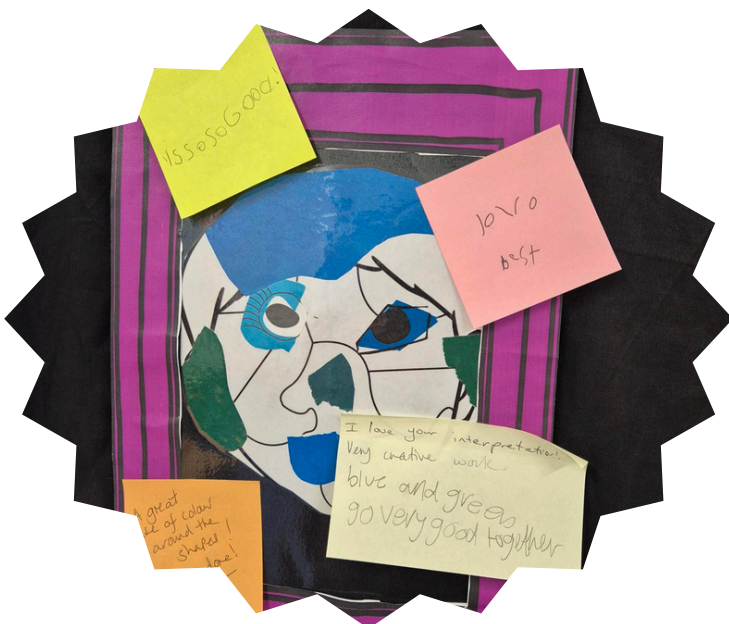

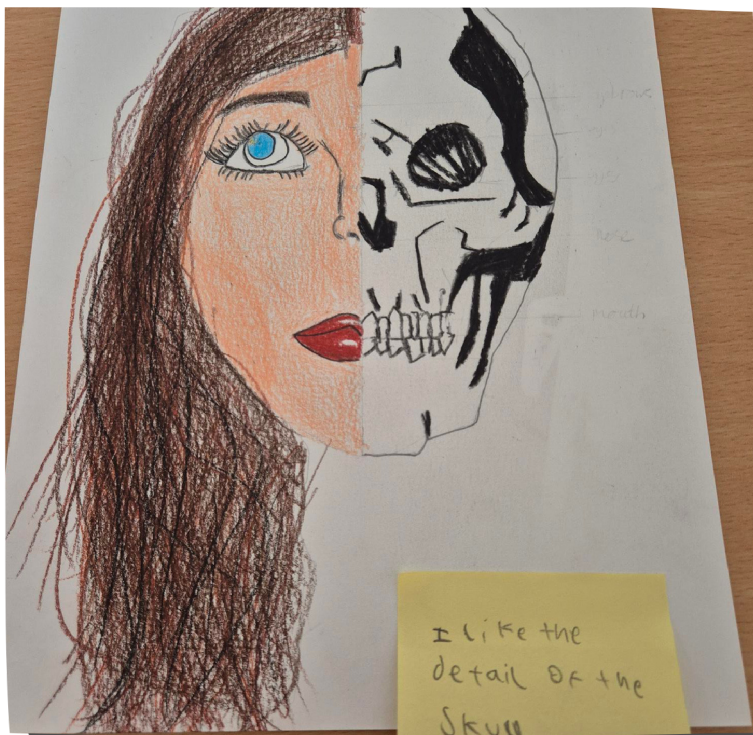

Today, there has been a lot of end of half term work taking place and the main building smells of delicious baking!

Happy half term. See you on the 2/11/26

Breda's assembly on Monday was about World Mental Health Day. Students offered very thoughtful contributions to the discussion.
